- Go online and have all the family members take a love language test. Tonight is the best night to do it.
- Have each person tell their love language and share if they agree with the test.
- Have each person share when they feel most loved now that they have learned about love languages. I have done this with even 4 year olds. Do not sell the young ones short.

Stuff That Works Building Families

Chapter 15 Take Action: Action 1

Go online and have all the family members take a love language test. Tonight is the best night to do it.

ACTION

I love bringing popular tools from the real world to bear with my families. Love Languages has been round for a long time because it works.

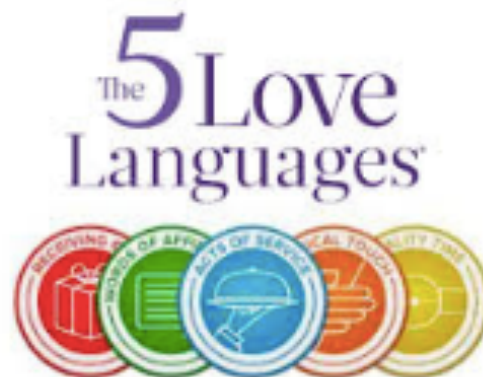

Taking this action will engage your family. It engages them on a different level and gives them an experience they can share in their daily lives beyond the family.

This tool also opens up your family members to self knowledge. Who are they. What do they think. How do they work.

The tool used in this way also helps you learn about each other. It will build your family.

Try it!

Chapter 15 Take Action: Action 2

Have each person tell their love language and share if they agree with the test.

ACTION.

We spend a great deal of time together as families but almost no time really understanding each other and how we think.

Activities of this nature with these types of tools are very eye opening and can really have a positive impact on a family.

I encourage you to create from time to time a family culture of talking about things that matter. I have found that these moments sprinkled through our family life together can have a significant positive impact.

The key is to create open communication and to protect each persons dignity.

Give it a try it has worked for us.

Chapter 15 Take Action: Action 3

Have each person share when they feel most loved now that they have learned about love languages. I have done this with even 4 year olds. Do not sell the young ones short.

ACTION.

I would encourage you not to exclude the young ones.

You will be surprised how much they can contribute.

I have been blessed with kids across a great span of years. The different perspectives they bring to these type of activities is amazing.

Inclusion brings great rewards. Use all that your family has to make it better.
